PEACEFUL COEXISTENCE

Usually when the Russians shoot down an American plane, there are no survivors to tell what really happened. In the latest destructive assault on a B-29 off Japan, the pilot and nine of the other 10 crewmen bailed out safely.

Without an eyewitness, the customary Russian declaration that the plane was encroaching on Soviet soil would inevitably find some believers. At the very least, it would sow seeds of doubt in many minds.

But this time we can ask the pilot. He has assured Air Force authorities the ill-fated B-29 never was close to Russian territory at any time. We can nail that phony Soviet tactic for the lie it is.

The fact is the Russians practice this business of shooting down an occasional American plane as a deliberate policy. They have no thought this harassment will lead to war, nor is it intended to.

Its primary aims are to convince the Soviet home folks they are really surrounded by hostile foreign foes (that makes them easier to manage), and to try to humiliate America in the eyes of susceptible Europeans and Asiatics.

"Peaceful coexistence" must look pretty weird to a planeload of Americans who have just seen their craft cut to pieces by Russian gunfire.

BRUSSELS — The scar of a German Gestapo agent's bullet still can be seen in the neat green doorway of Madame Josef Duchene.

Every time she goes through the door, the mark reminds Mrs. Duchene, an Irish-born widow of 85 who has become a symbol of Belgian civilian courage, of the terrible price she paid for sheltering two fugitive British soldiers during the last war.

"People used to come often to look at the bullet hole," said Mrs. Duchene, a sweet-faced, white-haired old lady with apple pie cheeks, who wears a black ribbon at her throat. "But no one has come now for a long time."

Born Anna Hodges in Waterford, Ireland, in 1869, she came here at 18 as a nursery governess. This is the story she told me as we sat in her small living room, hung with pictures of her late husband, her two dead children, King Albert, Belgium's World War I hero, and the present Queen Elizabeth of Britain.

"I felt so young and strange and homesick when I first came here," she said, "but people were nice to me and I felt better after I learned their language and their ways. Later I married Josef, coachman to the king. I forget the year, but I remember I was 30."

During the World War I her husband was sent to England with the king's horses. Mrs. Duchene remained here during the German occupation with her children, Leopold and Florrie. No funds reached them and they had a difficult time.

"Often we were hungry," recalled Mrs. Duchene. "But we made out." During this period Leopold, although underage, ran away and joined the army, later was captured by the Germans. Reunited, the Duchene family had a tough struggle in the years between the wars. Money was scarce, but Mrs. Duchene now looks back wistfully upon this as a happy time, because those she loved were valor.

How 'I'll Do It for You' Skids Child Into Misbehavior

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Mark started going into his skid of misbehavior as soon as he got home from school.

Told that his father was bringing a guest home for dinner, he protested doing an errand until his mother had to turn her pie into a pudding.

Then, learning that the guest's presence would make it impossible for him to watch his favorite TV adventure, he gave vent to a defiant "Dammit!" And rebuked, he kept insisting that this forbidden word was justified.

Next, asked to wash, he dried himself with a guest towel that had to be replaced. Finally, when she found him spawling in a litter of magazines spilled from her carefully arranged rack, his mother lost her temper.

She said, "Get up from that sofa—and get out to the yard! Goodness, what's got into you this afternoon? If ever a boy had a talent for housewrecking, it's you! Hurry up! Get out of this room so I can get it back into one piece again."

As she spoke, she gave him a little push. Stumbling, he toppled over the end table beside him—and with it, its china container of after-dinner mints. And suddenly, as he looked from the rolling candies back to his mother in dismay, she knew what was wrong with Mark.

Irritation went out of her like a fever dropping. She said, "All right, darling. Pick them up. Put them back. Then pick up the magazines and arrange them the way you found them."

And the skid was over. It was over because Mark had found the traction he needed to regain his self-respect. Finally, after an afternoon of mistakes corrected for him, he had been given his chance to put one right himself.

Every parent experiences these "skids" occasionally. For every parent gets preoccupied occasionally. And in this state, they start children off on their "skids" by resentfully correcting some mistake they have made for them.

They begin as they began with Mark.

Under the momentum of his rapidly draining self-respect, he's sped helplessly from one bad performance to another until it looks as though the very demon of contrariness has taken him over.

The real demon's name was "I'll do it for you." The instant Mark's mother realized this, she could brake his "skid" by arranging for him to correct his last mistake himself.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — Pierre Mendes-France, who comes here today for talks with the Eisenhower administration, has had virtually no rest since he became French premier last June. He is an active man of 47, an economist by preference, shrewd, a tough bargainer. He is also, in the long pull, an unknown quantity.

By standing aside while the French Assembly killed the European Defense Community, he steered France away from European federation and perhaps even that union.

The France he took over split by factions was drifting. He has tried to give it a sense of direction. A nationalist, he wants to make France self-sufficient but is probably too realistic to think she will be a first-class power again.

Where there was drift, he has provided blazing energy and action. But energy and action by themselves spell neither wisdom nor success. Whether he can, by vision and ability, bring France back to her feet is something he still has to demonstrate.

In France he has plenty of admirers and plenty of critics. His one finished product to show for five months in office is an end to the Indochina fighting. It was, in effect, a French surrender. His admirers say it was the best settlement any Frenchman could find. His critics say surrender is not a distinction and anyone could do as much.

He promised on taking office to revitalize the French economy. On that it's been talk so far. This is understandable since his time has been monopolized by problems of foreign policy.

He had no stomach for EDC, the plan for rearming West Germany, bringing her into a single European army. The French themselves had first proposed it, but the French Assembly stalled on approving it. The French feared a rearmament Germany and objected to seeing France merge her army with those of other nations.

Mendes-France said EDC didn't have a chance. But whereas his predecessors didn't have nerve to call for a vote, he did. But he sat idly by while the Assembly killed it.

Then in a burst of action he got together with the United States, Britain, West Germany and others and worked out a new plan for rearming the Germans. This would let them have an independent army, allied with France, who would also have an individual army. Germany would join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) with the United States, Britain, France and Italy.

And NATO would be able to keep controls on the Germans. But the French have fewer guarantees against resurgent German militarism under this arrangement than they would have under EDC. This is still unfinished business.

Mendes-France backs it, will bring it to Assembly vote in mid-December and hopes it will pass.

If Germany does turn militaristic again and breaks away from the NATO controls, Mendes-France will have proved to be short sighted in not fighting for EDC.

Serve Hot Norway Tidbits

Before Thanksgiving Dinner

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor

At the home of Mrs. Arne B. Holt, Port Washington, Long Island, N. Y., we enjoyed hot Norway tidbits and kippers creamed with mushrooms. Mrs. Holt, of Norwegian ancestry, though born in the United States, was raised in Norway and remained there until the Nazi invasion. Her husband is an engineer on a floating whaling factory and spends from 5 to 6 months in the Antarctic every year.

Mrs. Holt says the sardines and kippers from the mineral rich waters of the Norwegian fjords make wonderful dishes for American menus. We think her sardine tidbits would be perfect appetizers to serve before the Thanksgiving turkey.

Hot Norway sardine tidbits. Two 13-ounce cans Norway sardines, 1 small can red pimento, cut into strips, 6 slices of bacon, cut in half, 4 slices of toast, 2 lemons, sliced, parsley.

Drain the oil from the cans of Norway sardines. Wrap bacon strips around the individual sardines from one can. Wrap pimento strips around the contents of second can of sardines. Arrange in greased skillet and place in moderate oven until bacon is a golden brown. Cut each toast slice into six pieces and arrange sardine tidbits on each piece. Garnish with lemon slices and parsley.

Kippers and Creamed Mushrooms on Toast Points (Yields 4 generous portions) Four 13-ounce cans Norway kippers, 1 10-ounce can cream of mushroom soup, 3 ounces milk, 1 ounce butter or margarine, 4 slices bread, salt, pepper, parsley, sprigs.

In a double boiler heat the cream of mushrooms, combining the milk and butter or margarine. Cut kippers into 1-inch lengths and add to ingredients in double boiler. Stir season to taste and heat for 2 or 3 minutes. Arrange toast points on a serving platter, putting foreign substances in angular strips, on a serving platter, putting foreign substances in angular strips, on a serving platter, putting foreign substances in angular strips.

Four hot mixture over toast with smoke.

If You Want an Education Go Get It Despite Your Age

She quit school at the end of the eighth grade and since then has been earning her own living.

The longer she is out in the world the more she sees the value of a high school education. The question now is—should she enroll in night school and try for a high school diploma?

She says, "I would like to go to night school but I feel I'm too old because right now I'm 22 years of age and I probably would be 26 before I finished."

Twenty-two seems old only to a person who is 22 or younger. To the rest of the world 22 is youth with everything ahead. It is an age when a person can still do whatever he likes with his life.

YOU'RE NEVER TOO OLD TO LEARN

So if you regret not having a high school education and have come to realize that your limited schooling will be a handicap to you in the years ahead, enroll in night school tomorrow.

You will probably find that you aren't one of the "old" students in your night school classes but one of the younger students.

For today nobody need ever feel he is too old to go back to school. Mothers often go back to school as soon as they get all of their children up to school age.

Grandmothers decide to take night school classes and some even enter college when they have grandchildren working toward a degree.

Men, young and old, go back to school to get the education they need on the job or to fit them for the kind of job they want to move into.

So you see, education is a gift. If you are just a kid, four years from now when you walk up for your high school diploma you'll still be a girl. But you will have proved you had the foresight and determination of a woman.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — The death of rough old Lionel Barrymore has robbed Hollywood of one of its most colorful and sentimental characters.

How he would have snored if he had been called sentimental in his lifetime! He liked to growl and grumble like the world's greatest grouch. It became an act with him and he was easily imitated by night club mimics.

But that exterior toughness was only to hide a soft-hearted gentleman who was sincerely interested in people. He would appear to be unconcerned with others, but occasionally he would expose his sympathetic nature. When a prominent Los Angeles boxer got in trouble on a dope rap, Lionel arranged to have a heart-to-heart talk with the lad in an attempt to straighten him out.

During his 28 years at MGM, Barrymore was greatly interested in the younger talent on the lot and tried to help newcomers along with gruff words of advice.

Lionel carried the secret of his real self to his grave. But a member of the family once told me of the tragedy of his life.

"Few people remember it, but Lionel had two daughters," the person said. "Both died when they were three."

The family member recalled Lionel's weeping one time as he recalled what might have happened if his daughters had lived. Such a loss would be hard for any parent. And no one ever filled the void in his life when his second wife, Irene Fenwick, died 18 years ago.

And so Lionel adopted an outwardly bitter attitude toward life. But perhaps his real feeling was expressed in the final words of his autobiography, "We Barrymores!"

"These are the important things: Youth, and health, and someone to love you."

He closed the book with words from Macbeth starting "Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow." Sentimentally enough, these were the words he was reciting when stricken.

Professional 'Anti-Commie' Promoted Rally for McCarthy

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — NEA — Moving spirit of the National Rally for McCarthy held in Washington's Constitution Hall on Veterans Day was Rabbi Benjamin Schultz of New York. He is a Commie-fighter from back in 1947 and he is now a paid professional.

His full-time job is National Director of the American Jewish League Against Communism.

Rabbi Schultz, born in Brooklyn 48 years ago, got into this business through a series of newspaper articles entitled "Communism Invades the Churches." In 1947, at the time he had been head of the Temple Emanuel-EI in Yonkers, N. Y., for eight years.

His articles started a controversy in his own congregation. He remained. He still maintains his standing as a rabbi, but he has no synagogue and he says his present pay is lower than most rabbis get.

RABBI SCHULTZ ADMITS that many Jews do not agree with his opinions. Just as many Catholics do not agree with Bishop Sheil of Chicago and many Protestants do not agree with Bishop Oxnham of Washington.

But a small group of Jews in New York selected him to be head of the American Jewish League Against Communism. George Sokolsky, the columnist, was one of the founders. Eugene Lyons of Reader's Digest is a board member. Alfred Kohlberg of "China Lobby" fame is national chairman. Roy Conn, Senator McCarthy's former chief counsel, is a new board member.

Incidentally, Schultz has been promoting a number of testimonial dinners for Cohn throughout the east. He also promoted a "Cohn for Governor" write-in campaign in the New York election this year.

It was at the Cohn testimonial dinner in Baltimore in early October that the idea for a "March on Washington" to support McCarthy was born. The main idea was to have delegations from as many states as possible call on their senators personally and demand that Senator McCarthy not be censured but be commended for his fight on Communism.

"THE SHOOTING DOWN OF Joe McCarthy is just like the shooting down of a B-29," says Schultz as he warms to his favorite subject.

"The leaders of the McCarthy censure movement are dominated by elements that favor the admission of Red China to the United Nations," he continues. "They are out to get every anti-Communist in the United States."

The rabbi emphasizes the "they" and the "get." But when questioned about who "they" are he refuses to name names although he boasts that he has publicly called Owen Lattimore a Communist and dared him to sue for libel.

Schultz then continues: "After McCarthy comes Admiral Strauss. The pro-Communist will never forgive Admiral Strauss for setting Oppenheimer."

The references here are to Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, now chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, who last summer took the initiative in having the security clearance lifted on Princeton scientist J. Robert Oppenheimer, wartime head of the Los Alamos, N. M., laboratory where the first A-bombs were built.

SCHULTZ WAS ASKED TO IDENTIFY these pro-Communists, or to name any senator whom he considered a pro-Communist. He declined to do so. But he defined a "pro-Communist" as any "anti-anti-Communist."

After Admiral Strauss, "Vice President Nixon is next" in this pro-Communist purge, Schultz predicts confidently.

"They're trying to get the Congressional committees investigating communism too," he goes on. Rabbi Schultz thinks that Senator John L. McClellan (D. Ark.) and Rep. Francis E. Walter (D. Pa.) who have advocated reorganization of congressional investigation machinery on Communism, are sincere men. "But they don't realize the source of their own thinking."

"Many ideas," the rabbi explains, "are manufactured in the minds of smart young public relations men on Madison Ave."

Arthritis Can Be Helped by X-ray, Cortisone and ACTH

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Mrs. G. writes that her mother is suffering from arthritis of the spine and asks whether it is curable and whether someone who is lacking in vitamin C is especially easy to answer. There seems little evidence that lack of vitamin C in the diet has much to do with arthritis. With respect to the question on cure, although I get tired of saying so continuously, the answer depends on the kind of arthritis, its extent, the age of the victim and other factors.

Mrs. G's letter raises some other points about arthritis of the spine which may be discussed. There are several kinds. The cause of some, such as tuberculosis arthritis, is known and that of others is not. Many forms of arthritis of the spine may be rather far advanced before they produce any pain or other symptoms, and sometimes it is actually discovered accidentally when an X-ray of the spine is made for some other reason.

ONE OF THE common forms of spinal arthritis, particularly in elderly people and those who are overweight, is a sort of bony degeneration which is not accompanied by true inflammation of the joints between the vertebrae of the spine. As a general rule this does not cause much trouble, and since comparatively little can be done for it anyway, it should be considered as a sign of advancing years and as an ailment rather than as any serious disease.

IF SYMPTOMS from this form of arthritis do develop, there is no way of truly restoring the joints to normal. The treatment must, therefore, be aimed at relieving the symptoms of pain and stiffness insofar as possible. A back brace can be helpful. The use of a mattress or a board under the mattress is also commonly recommended. Sometimes heat, massage, or other measures of physical therapy bring about considerable relief. Reduction in weight also may be on benefit.

One kind of spinal arthritis is most common in young men. No one knows why this should be the case and it is still debated among medical men as to whether this disease of the spine is a variety of the more common rheumatoid arthritis involving other joints or whether it is purely a spinal disease.

THIS FORM OF spinal arthritis is particularly distressing. It causes a good deal of pain and stiffness. Unless properly treated, it tends to cause the body to be bent forward and also interferes with proper expansion of the chest. After many years, it usually results in a complete stiffening of the spine, called poker spine, and when this occurs, the pain disappears.

What is the best treatment? Still uncertain, although some have reported good results with X-ray treatment. A few patients have been treated with cortisone or ACTH with fairly good results.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

Ever since the last war Bernard Baruch has been trying to sell the country on the idea of long range planning for national security by people who aren't up to their necks in immediately pressing problems.

Now he is reiterating his suggestion that the National Security Council should have some members who are merely full time thinkers.

The NSC is composed of the President, vice president and Cabinet members whose departments are involved in national security and military preparedness. It has a staff, under Robert J. Cutler, which does a certain amount of coordinating and advisory work. But the council serves primarily as a coordinating body rather than as an independent policy making agency.

Policy making in international affairs, upon which national security is based, is a function of the White House, with the recommendations and advice of the secretary of state, who in turn relies heavily upon a planning staff composed of top foreign service men and others. George Kennan, the historical philosopher and foreign affairs expert was the first head of this group. With all of his attention to the broader problems of projecting policy into the future, even he gradually found himself more and more submerged under the pressure of current problems.

Hopalong Dodges Genuine Missile

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Hopalong Cassidy—actor William Boyd—almost came to the end of the long, long trail at Adelaide's Norwood Oval Tuesday night.

The idol of American youngsters stepped forward on the stage in the center of the arena to speak to the crowd during an exhibition of boomerang throwing.

At that moment the wind caught the fast-traveling missile, dipping it under the awning of the stage. Hoppy heard the whistling, ducked quickly, and the boomerang missed his head by inches.

The boomerang later was presented to Hoppy.

The Baruch Plan would not interfere with such work in the State Department, or in any of the other departments such as defense and Treasury already represented in the council. It would merely add men of experience with reputations for thinking—men like Baruch himself—to interpolate a description which he has not put forward—who would have nothing to do but get the reports of those other busy executives and come up with their own recommendations.

Former presidents and secretaries of state, former senators who have specialized, in international and defense affairs, students such as Kennan, might offer a fertile field from which to choose. It's not that the things needing working on are not being worked on. But there does seem to be room for better application of what is being done in the individual departments.

Wall Treatments Subject Of Talk At Club Session

The November meeting of the Jacksonville Household Science Club was held at Jane Hall, MacMurray College, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. C. P. McClelland serving as hostess and Mrs. Carl Gordon, assistant hostess. The business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Wadsworth Applebee.

After the roll call, Mrs. Ernest Stout, program chairman, presented Mrs. John Wright who gave an interesting paper on "Wall Treatments."

She said in part: "Wall treatment calls for planning just as does every other phase of home furnishing. It is like putting frosting on the cake and when properly done has the same delightful agreeable effect. We concentrate our decorating efforts on draperies, carpet and furniture—perhaps our walls are the Cinderellas who work for us without proper recognition or loving affection."

In Mrs. Wright's discussion of "Wall Treatments," she said whether it be papered, painted, plastered, or paneled, it must be the expression of your own personality.

"The same holds true for what goes on that wall, be it mirrors, pictures or shelves. It is your home, and it should be a source of joy and contentment to you."

She closed with the thought by the German philosopher, Johann Goethe, "He is the happiest, be he king or peasant, who finds peace in his home." Mrs. Wright showed many striking samples of wall papers, wood paneling and drapes to illustrate her paper.

The guest of the afternoon, Mrs. Iva Short, Miss Lena Hopper, Mrs. Helene Lukeman, Miss Violet Davis, Miss Hazel Young, Miss Blunt, and Mrs. J. A. Gordon and Mrs. Orville Wise of Manchester, were welcomed by the president and all were invited to the decorated tea table beautifully dined with fall flowers Mrs. Applebee and Mrs. Wright poured.

At least 150 persons were driven from their homes. Three explosions rocked the area but only one person was reported injured, a fireman hospitalized with burns on both feet.

TENSE MOMENT—This picture was snapped during the annual roundup of buffalo on the government-owned Fort Huachuca reserve, 85 miles south of Tucson, Ariz. At first glance all seems peaceful. But actually it's a tense moment, filled with danger. The buffalo have ranged unattended all year. As a result, they are quite wild. It's risky for Game Warden M. S. McNeil to get that close to the beasts. The horse is tense, as he eyes the big bull eyeing him. In a similar situation, a few days later, this horse was badly gored and had to be destroyed.

Streetcar Mishap Probe Continued: 3 Killed, 35 Hurt

CHICAGO (AP) — A coroner's jury has continued until Nov. 30 its investigation of a streetcar and trailer truck collision that claimed three lives and injured 35 other persons Monday.

The jury ordered the continuance Tuesday to permit completion of a police investigation before reaching a verdict.

The jury heard a fellow trucker testify that Ernest Taylor's trailer truck was weaving in traffic for at least two miles before it collided with the streetcar.

Joseph F. Robinson, 42, of 1058 Lonia Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich., testified that he saw Taylor's truck climb over a curb and narrowly miss a fire hydrant long before the accident occurred. Taylor, 46, did not testify.

A woman who told police she was riding in the cab of Taylor's truck just before the crash said Taylor had not been drinking.

Mrs. Bonita Patric, 3933 N. Clarendon Ave., said she leaped from the cab just before the collision and suffered bruises.

Killed in the collision at Western avenue and 61st street were the streetcar motorman and two passengers.

Rescue Kin Of Local People In Mountains

A news story in the Bremerton Sun at Bremerton, Wash., tells of the dramatic rescue of Claude G. Thompson, 39 year old Annapolis, Wash. elk hunter who was lost in the rugged Olympic Mountains south of Lake Cushman for two nights and three days.

Thompson is the son of Mrs. Hoover Thompson of Rockhouse, Ill., and his wife Alice, is the daughter of Mrs. Lula M. Galtner of 1139 Elm street this city. Mrs. Thompson is also a niece of Joseph Galtner of 762 Freedman street.

Thompson and five other men started on an elk hunt in the rugged mountains but soon became separated. Thompson worked the summit of the mountain about 1400 feet above the river. The men were to meet at camp late in the afternoon but Thompson was not heard from again.

After his companions searched for him for several hours they sent for help and were soon joined by members of the United States forestry service. There were 21 men in the organized party which included forestry men, sheriff's deputies, a game protector and several employees of a logging company.

Directed by Forest Ranger A. M. (Red) Williams the searchers spread out over the vast wooded area. They utilized seven portable radios and a special telephone was installed. Bloodhounds were also brought to the scene.

As darkness approached one of the searchers sighted a man crouched on a sand bank beside the creek. It was Thompson. He had come to a rock outcropping that prevented him from following the creek any further and he had not strength to climb out.

The searchers called over the radio for a stretcher. Thompson was carried out and removed to a hospital where he is recovering.

Reds Smeared With Same Brush Used On Italy Official

ROME (AP) — The Communists, after months of lambasting Italy's government for immoralities alleged in the Wilma Montesi case, were themselves smeared today by charges of "immoral acts involving minors" leveled against one of their chief supporters.

Solign's letter of resignation to the Provincial Council said he wanted to be free to defend his honor.

The Rome Communists' headquarters announced he had been suspended "from all party activities pending defense against the grave charges of incompatibility with membership in the organization."

Report Yankees - Orioles Complete 11-Player Deal

Eddie Vincent, Iowa Back, Leads Big Ten Rushing With 6.9

Iowa-Notre Dame Fans Await Saturday's Battle

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—It's the game they—Iowa players, coaches, fans—have been waiting for since 3:30 p.m. Nov. 21, 1953 when the scoreboard showed: Notre Dame 14, Iowa 14.

That one, with its feigned injury which stopped the clock to give the Irish their last desperate and successful chance, has since been played over and over again verbally in Iowa to heighten the forecast of the one coming up here Saturday.

Iowans figure on the one to even up everything: Last year's loss and this season's disappointments away from home. They're as excited over the prospects a fan can get.

There will be 33,000 filling the house here Saturday. Not a seat has been available in the state since last July. Notre Dame fans bought 10,000 seats through the office there.

The Irish, holder of No. 4 spot in this week's national Associated Press poll and with only one loss so far this season are not minimizing the Saturday duel.

"So far as we are concerned," Charles Callahan, Notre Dame publicity representative, has said, "Iowa is just nine points away from the Big Ten title."

He referred to the fact that while Iowa has lost to Ohio State, Minnesota and Wisconsin, the greatest margin of victory for its foes was six points for OSU.

Iowa's Coach, Forest Evaschewsky, often regarded as a free wheeler with words, is extremely non-committal this week.

Some say he's cooking up some new plays. Others say he and his aides are polishing plays used little during the season.

Iowa's sports director, Eric Wilson, says:

"This is a different game from the others. We don't have to be holding back because we have another tough one the week beyond."

A's Sign Lou Boudreau To Two Year Contract

By SKIPPER PATRICK
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Lou Boudreau Wednesday was signed to a two-year contract as manager of the Kansas City Athletics, marking his third stint as an American League skipper.

Boudreau was fired recently as manager of the Boston Red Sox a post he had held since 1952. He was playing manager of the Cleveland Indians from 1942 through 1950.

Arnold Johnson, Chicago, businessman who acquired the Philadelphia franchise last week, did not disclose Boudreau's salary.

Boudreau's pay at Boston last year was $45,000 with another season to go. It's understood he'll collect approximately the same figure.

The signing of Boudreau followed by two days the naming of Parke Carroll, general manager of the old Kansas City Blues, as vice president and business manager of the new A's.

At the same time Wednesday Johnson announced that Eddie Joost, manager of the Philadelphia A's last year, had been given his unconditional release in order to negotiate a deal for himself.

Boudreau, who broke into professional baseball with Cleveland hot off the University of Illinois campus in 1938 and managed the Indians to the World Series championship 10 years later, was hopeful the change of scenery would put new life in him.

The 37-year-old Boudreau told the press conference he will name his coaches "shortly."

"We are going to need some ball players, but every man that reports to spring training is going to get a chance," Boudreau said.

SPORTS TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Greenberg urges the American League to lose no time in expanding to 10 clubs, bringing the rather casual comment from one critic that the idea is fine, but maybe the league should expand to eight clubs first.

His comment was based on the fact that there really were only three teams in the league this year, the Indians, Yankees and White Sox, and if there weren't enough good players to make the other five clubs contenders how could the material be spread over two more clubs without a general deterioration in the class of play?

Whether he is right is open to question. A 1954 was a very unusual year in the American League, but there is no question but that in due time the major leagues either will have to expand, or admit a third league.

The move of the Philadelphia Athletics to Kansas City is more than just the transfer of a franchise. It is a test to determine whether a city of between 400,000 and 500,000 can support a major league club, and other cities in that population bracket will be watching developments closely.

Right now there are 12 cities with populations of more than 400,000 that do not have major league baseball, the last being headed by Los Angeles with its nearly two million inhabitants.

Cities which might be considered potential sites for major league clubs, based on the 1950 census and figuring a minimum of 400,000 population is necessary, include:

Los Angeles, San Francisco, Houston, Buffalo, Minneapolis, New Orleans, Seattle, Dallas, Denver, Indianapolis, San Antonio, Portland, Ore., and San Diego.

Five of these are in the 400,000-500,000 bracket, including San Antonio, Seattle, Dallas, Denver and Indianapolis. Dallas is close to Fort Worth, and would figure to draw from that city's 278,778 population.

Minneapolis might be considered an entry with St. Paul, the two having a combined population of 833,067, which should be ample to support a club, particularly as two American A.L. clubs are being supported in that area now.

That Los Angeles and San Francisco are ready for major league clubs, and would support them in the manner which might be expected for such clubs, cannot be denied.

And if Kansas City, with its population of 456,622, proves it can carry a major league franchise it opens the way for other cities in the 400,000-up category.

Army Back Ruled Eligible To Play

NEW YORK (AP)—The executive council of the Eastern College Athletic Conference decided Wednesday that Army football Tommy Bell is eligible to play against Navy Nov. 27.

At the same time it ruled that in the future "turnback" plebes, such as Bell was in his first varsity season, will not be eligible for varsity competition.

Bell's eligibility had been questioned because he had played varsity football in 1951, his second plebe year, after having played on the Army plebe, or freshman team the previous season.

Podbielan Fined In Traffic Court

CINCINNATI (AP)—Clarence A. Bud Podbielan, 30, a Cincinnati Reds pitcher, was convicted in Traffic Court Wednesday of reckless driving and speeding.

In addition to fining him $30 and costs and taking away his driving rights for seven days, Judge John W. Keefe ordered the big hurler to win 20 games next season.

Podbielan was arrested last Monday morning after a police chase and was clocked at 63 miles an hour before he hit a street sign which, a patrolman testified.

The pitcher said he was worried over the condition of his wife, a polo victim. She was reported improving.

I.S.D. Tigers Open Season Tuesday; Four Lettermen On Hand

The Illinois School for the Deaf Tigers have been working out every evening after supper under the supervision of coach Jim Spink.

The Tigers open their season Tuesday night when they play to Waverly at the deaf gym.

The squad has been cut to 24 by coaches Spink and Clark. Among the 24 candidates are nine freshmen and only three seniors.

The four returning lettermen from last year's team include Jack Rampley, Al Duncan, Bill Zachariasen and Don Phelps. However, two of these players are doubtful starters for the Waverly game.

Rampley suffered a severe pulled muscle in the final football game and hasn't been able to walk since. Another starter, center Zachariasen, is a doubtful starter for the opener having several stitches in his right elbow.

Duncan and Phelps appear ready to go and coach Spink has been working hard trying to find the other three starters. A freshman, Paul Melning, has been looking good and

Jimmy Carter Regains Title With TKO Over DeMarco In 15th

By RUSS NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Jimmy Carter, fighting a planned, methodical battle, regained the world's lightweight title Wednesday night, with a technical knockout over Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn in the last round of a 15-round fight at the Cow Palace.

Carter, who won in as a 34 favorite, to get back the crown he lost to DeMarco last March, battered his rival into submission in the first 14 seconds of the last round.

DeMarco weighed 134½, and Carter 135 for the nationally televised scrap.

The champion was helpless from a barrage of punches to the body and face shortly after the 15th opened. He fell into the ropes and referee Ray Flores pulled him out and turned him around. DeMarco was in no condition to continue and Carter's hand was raised in victory.

Carter, punching methodically to the face and body overcame an early lead piled up by DeMarco. The champ was in front for the first four rounds.

Carter pounded away steadily to take the fifth and sixth. He stung DeMarco with rights to the jaw. DeMarco's left eye, cut on the side in the second round, made a fine target for Carter and he banged the optic steadily. It was badly swollen by the end of the fifth.

The seventh and eighth appeared fairly even but Carter shot over a left hook to the jaw in the ninth that put DeMarco down. He was up at the count of four.

Carter blasted him around for the rest of the round, scoring repeatedly with rights to the jaw. The champion weathered the storm but finished in bad shape.

DeMarco made a comeback in the 10th and 11th rounds. He inflicted a cut over Carter's left eye in the 10th and was the aggressor in the 11th, landing the most blows.

Carter took command again in the 12th, chasing DeMarco around the ring and landing stiff lefts and rights to the jaw while a crowd of more than 6,000 roared.

DeMarco was distressed from hard body jolts and lefts and rights to the jaw in the 13th. He finished the round in a groggy condition.

Carter rained punches to DeMarco's body and head in the 14th and the champ went down from a right to the jaw as the round ended.

DeMarco's left eye was swollen closed as he came out for the final round. Carter poured punches on him. DeMarco was spun around to a corner of the ring.

DeMarco was reeling and help-

U.S. Living Standards Better Than Soviet, Wickersham

MOSCOW (AP)—Rep. Victor Wickersham (R-Okla.), just back from a one-week tour of interior Russia, said Wednesday "Russia just can't compare with the U.S. standard of living."

"In some respects," he said in an interview, "they are 50 years behind U.S. standards—for instance, some of their industrial methods and thousands of women doing heavy manual labor."

But Wickersham, who winds up a two-week visit to the Soviet Union Friday, also added "yet Russia has made considerable improvement over what I saw here nine years ago."

"For instance, they are doing very much residential and public building. Their farm lands look very fertile and the people seem cheerful and happy with what they have and they are mighty proud of what they have. But they certainly know little if anything about the outside world."

Football Briefs

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Quarter-

backs En Lindbeck and Hiles Stoddard, who were in a long passing drill Wednesday as Illinois sharpened its passing attack for the finale with Northwestern Saturday.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's footballers Wednesday held their last rugged workout for Saturday's invasion of Iowa.

Following a long dummy scrimmage, Coach Terry Brennan conducted a short live scrimmage with the Irish operating from its regular split-T formation and also a spread.

In the spread, quarterback Ralph Gaffney and fullbacks Don Schaefer and Paul Hornung alternated in the tailback spot.

Two erstwhile injured players, right half Paul Reynolds and right end Gene Kaphis, participated in the contact session.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Quarterback Dale Pienta and two converted reserve halfbacks Wednesday were featured in a long Northwestern aerial drill.

Junior Frank Jeske and senior Frank Lentzow, converted from halfback to quarterback, tossed the ball along with Pienta. Their main targets were ends Jack Stillwell, Zigie Niepokoj and Fred No-son.

Carter sailed in with a vicious two-handed attack. Referee Flores stepped in and halted the contest. It was the third time Carter has won the lightweight title. He became champion in 1951 by knocking out Ike Williams in the 14th round. In 1952, he lost the title to Luro Salas of Mexico by a decision.

Carter won it back from the Mexican a few months later of the same year.

DeMarco outpointed Carter in 15 rounds to win the title last March in New York.

The present match was twice postponed. It was originally scheduled for last June but called off with a virus infection.

It was rescheduled for September but postponed again because DeMarco developed a calcium deposit in his elbow.

Five-Day Auto Race Begins Friday

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The 1,900-mile, five-day Pan-American road race which opens Friday is the longest and possibly the most dangerous major automobile race in the world.

More than 150 top drivers from three continents will risk their lives and talents and risk their prize—and even their lives—to win $117,200 in prize money in the five-one race (there are five car classes entered).

The contestants roar over the curving, roller-coaster highway from tip-to-tip of Mexico at speeds exceeding the Indianapolis speedway average.

The sometimes good, sometimes bad Pan-American Highway runs through thick tropical forests, over high mountain passes, and then dives into low, long scorching desert regions.

Wandering animals and enthusiastic race fans are constant threats.

Seven persons died last year. Two already have been killed this week in test runs for the fifth annual race.

MURRAYVILLE (Special)—The Murrayville graders defeated visiting Waverly 45-20 here last night. The hosts jumped off to a 10 point lead in the first quarter and were never in any serious trouble.

In a close battle, Waverly's second team defeated Murrayville 23-22 in the preliminary battle.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Middleweights Rocky Castellani of Cleveland and Moses Ward, 22, of Detroit, will meet in a bout for the Cleveland News Toyshop fund boxing show here Dec. 1, matchmakers said Wednesday.

Beaded for nearly a month with a liver ailment known as infectious hepatitis, the 36-year-old New Yorker will pass up tournament play and count himself out of any possible action with the Davis Cup team.

Talburt was stricken with the liver ailment Oct. 22 and was released from the hospital last week. Doctors gave him permission to make the trip but advised against any playing.

Turley, Larsen Move To Yanks; Woodling, Byrd Go To Baltimore

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees and the Baltimore Orioles have completed one of the biggest baseball deals in years with pitchers Bob Turley and Don Larsen going to the Yankees and veteran outfielder Gene Woodling and pitcher Harry Byrd to the Orioles. It was learned Wednesday from an authoritative baseball source.

The trade, which also involves a number of other players, is scheduled to be announced Thursday.

In addition to Woodling and Byrd the Yankees will send two young catchers, believed to be Gus Triandos and Hal Smith and three or four other players to the Orioles. At least two and possibly three others will come to the Yankees along with Baltimore's two outstanding pitchers.

In Turley and Larsen the Yanks obtain two of the outstanding young pitchers in the American League, although neither had outstanding won and lost records with Baltimore last season.

Turley, 24-year-old fire-ball right hander, led the league in strikeouts with 184 and had an earned run average of 3.45 while winning 14 and losing 15.

Larsen, 26 years old and also a right hander, dropped 21 games while winning only three, one a shutout against the Yankees, but he was highly regarded throughout the circuit. He had an earned run average of 4.37.

Woodling, 32, veteran of nine years in the majors—the last six with the Yankees—batted .250 last year after being out of action some time with injuries. It was his lowest average since coming up to the majors with Cleveland in 1943.

Byrd, obtained by the Yankees last winter from the Philadelphia Athletics, never quite fulfilled the hopes of the New York management. He had a 9-7 record. Most of his victories were against second division clubs. The big right hander will be 30 years old next February.

Triandos and Smith, two of the five catchers on the Yankee roster, played in the triple A American Association last year. Triandos, 24, hit .296 with Kansas City, competing for 18 home runs and driving in 65 runs. Smith, also 24, batted .350 for Columbus, hit only seven homers and drove in 50 runs.

Smith was optioned to Columbus in the deal that brought Enos Slaughter from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Yankees.

In number of players involved the Yankee-Orioles deal ranks with the one between New York and the Athletics last winter. Eleven players were involved in that trade.

The selection committee's action must be approved in a mail vote of the entire U.S. Olympic Committee.

The selection group's decision on Detroit was announced at the close of a two-day session in which bids for the games proper also were heard from Los Angeles, Minneapolis, Philadelphia and Chicago.

If Detroit is approved by the U.S. Olympic Committee it will be authorized to send a delegate to the International Olympic Committee meeting in Paris June 14-17 to bid for the 1960 games against other cities of the world.

ARMY COACH GETS LETTER SIGNED 'THE OLD SPANIARD'

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—Navy Coach Earl Ralston, who signed "The Old Spaniard" wherever he goes, got a letter signed "The Old Spaniard" yesterday.

If you don't get the drop, don't want on the Army football team, call off that box. It isn't entirely Red Black's fault.

The Army coach, hospitalized by pneumonia, recently received a letter signed, "The Old Spaniard" asking for information about his team.

It also said the coaches of Cornell, Maryland, Kentucky, Rice and Alabama had failed to respond to similar requests and that something unpleasant had happened to each team.

"So if either your or Navy Coach Earl Ralston, the box must prevail," it warned.

Black sent the letter to sport publicity director Joe Cahill, a "note." "Joe, don't fail The Old Spaniard."

But somehow the envelope with the return address disappeared. Joe has the information, but doesn't know where to send it.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued driving ahead Wednesday with the steel and railroad leading the rise in heavy trading.

The market now has established seven new 25-year peaks out of the last eight sessions. There were few signs of faltering in the bull market boom triggered by the elections two weeks ago.

There were some sharp losses, usually caused by corporate developments, but there was no acute weakness in the list.

Gains and losses spread over a range of around $2 either way with some going much farther.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 70 cents at $144.50. The average was up 90 cents Tuesday.

Now the average stands at the highest level since Oct. 16, 1929, and some $13 below the all-time high established Sept. 3 of that year.

The industrial component of the average added 20 cents at a new high of $198.50 while utilities remained unchanged.

Railroads soared ahead $1.80 at a new high of $109.20, thus providing the greatest impetus for the rise of the 60-stock average.

Volume hit a new high for the year at 3,830,000 shares. There hasn't been that much business done since Jan. 17, 1951, when 3,860,000 shares changed hands. Tuesday's total was 3,260,000.

The American Stock Exchange was ahead on balance with heavy trading of 1,010,000 shares as compared with 860,000 shares Tuesday.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Railroads climbed in an active but irregular corporate bond market Wednesday. U. S. government bonds also improved.

"Big Board" volume increased to $4,904,000 par value from $4,415,000 Tuesday. Railroads found the most support. Investment quality utilities and industrials fluctuated narrowly, but convertible obligations generally were strong.

BEAN FUTURES GAIN AS WHEAT, CORN EASE

By WILLIAM FERRIS
CHICAGO (AP)—A late lull in soybean prices featured dealings on the Board of Trade Wednesday. Soybeans finished with gains extending to 4 1/2 cents, the November contract being up most.

Wheat and corn eased and rice dropped several cents at one time, recouping slightly before the final bell. Oats resisted the selling pressure noticed in other major grains. Lard eased as loose lard tumbled to a new low for the year at 13 1/2 cents a pound.

Wheat closed 1 1/2 lower, corn 1 cent lower to 1/4 higher, oats 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher, rice 1/2 to 2 cents lower, soybeans 1 1/2-4 1/2 higher and lard 30 cents lower to 5 cents a hundred pounds higher.

The late rally in soybeans stemmed from short covering. Thursday is the last day for trading in November contracts and the shorts in that month took to the buying side. At the start of trading open interest in November beans totaled 7,415,000 bushels.

There was a demand for all grains right at the start and during the first few minutes all wheat contracts again set new seasonal highs. For the first time this week, however, the slow climb in wheat met resistance. Some brokers felt the market looked "tired" and the upturn was lost on profit taking.

Salaries Of 3 County Officials Raised To $6,000

Salaries of three Morgan county officials will be raised to $6,000 annually when they assume office on the first Monday in December. The county board of commissioners adopted a resolution increasing salaries of sheriff, treasurer and county clerk to that figure.

The law specifies that in counties containing 30,000 or more inhabitants, but less than 60,000 inhabitants, the salaries of these county officers shall be not less than $5,500 per annum, and not more than $7,500 per annum. Morgan county is within that population range, so that the increase voted by the county board was $500 above the minimum provided by law.

Salaries of county officials are fixed by the county boards in counties of less than 500,000 population.

Congregational Guild Prepares Bazaar Articles

Gift articles were made and planned Tuesday at the all day meeting of the Isabella Beecher and Frances Post Guilds of the Congregational church held at the home of Mrs. W. A. Fay, 1243 West State street. The ladies were sewing for the Guilds annual Christmas Tree Lane Bazaar to be held at the church Saturday, December 4.

At one-thirty in the afternoon Mrs. Fay served a delicious luncheon to her thirty-five guests.

Machine and hand sewing occupied guild members' time both morning and afternoon with supervision given by those in charge of the special booths for the Bazaar. A wide variety of festive aprons for women and the special size aprons to suit a man's needs for kitchen and bathroom were planned by Mrs. Arthur J. French in charge of that concession.

The group working under direction of Mrs. William L. Fay prepared clever gifts for children and Mrs. Myron Mills and Mrs. Maude Grove lent expert assistance for the fashioning of unusual wardrobes for dolls.

Ladies working in Mrs. Harry Storr's group made bags for the beach, laundry, shopping and even for evening occasions. Others were styled to especially delight the children. Mrs. Theodore Rammelkamp was in charge of making various coverings for the table, such as holiday cloths and individual place mats in various sizes.

The Christmas Tree Lane Bazaar is an all day colorful holiday market for the public to enjoy and will include the serving from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. of a tasty ham luncheon. Tickets for the luncheon may be obtained from any guild member or at the door on Dec. 4.

Mrs. Frances Arzel played several selections at the organ.

The flowers were cared for by Mrs. Joe Baker, Mrs. Arthur Dancy, Mrs. Ole Fenshemaker and Mrs. Robert Caswood.

The palbearers were William Fisher, Melvin Johnson, Earl Smith, Joe Baker, Robert Gaywood, Joseph Ogle, Robert Ogle and Onel Brockhouse.

Interment was made in the Diamond Grove cemetery.

Third Member Of Family Sentenced To Menard Prison

When Fred Harris, 19, is taken to the Menard penitentiary to begin serving a one to three years sentence for burglary, he will be the third member of his family now doing time in that prison.

Young Harris was sentenced Wednesday afternoon by Judge L. E. Whitte after a plea of guilty. He was accused of burglarizing the Herzberg-New Method Book Binery, and the Birdsell Ranch House.

County officials said Clarence Harris, father, is serving time for forgery and that a brother also is a prisoner at Menard.

'A Woman Is Never Too Free' Says Mrs. Doria Shafik

"Someone told me American women were too free, that a woman is never too free," said Mrs. Doria Shafik, a leading Egyptian feminist, in an interview last night when she first arrived in Jacksonville on a whirlwind tour under the auspices of the American Friends of the Middle East.

Madame Shafik will speak this evening at the meeting of the American Association of University Women to be held at 8 o'clock in the Social Room at MacMurray college. Her subject will be "The Role of Women in the New Regime in Egypt."

American women are the most free in the world, Mrs. Shafik said, and on this her first trip to the United States she has been especially impressed to see women everywhere she goes doing every kind of work. And yet, women in this country are not 100 per cent equal with men especially economically, she said.

In elaborating on her statement that a woman is never too free, Mrs. Shafik said that the more freedom women are given, the better they use it. In any country where women have been given equal rights they are conscious of the duties and responsibilities that go along with their freedom, she stated.

Madame Shafik has become one of the most outspoken leaders for the emancipation of women in her country. She edits three magazines, has published a book of poems, a historical novel and a new book "The Egyptian Women" which will appear shortly in Arabic and English. She heads an Egyptian group for women's suffrage called "Daughters of the Nile."

Three Point Freedom

Egyptian women today have achieved a three point freedom: socially, culturally and economically and have made great strides since 1923 when they began to put off the veil. They have been fighting for this freedom for more than a quarter of a century. Their last fight with Mrs. Shafik in the front ranks has been for political rights.

In 1901 they staged a march on parliament and in 1954 a hunger strike to achieve their ends. Under the new constitution of Egypt, women of that country will have their political rights guaranteed.

Mrs. Shafik came to Jacksonville from Rockford where she spoke on Wednesday. For the two days before that she addressed many groups in the Chicago area.

On leaving Jacksonville she will go to Ames, Iowa, to address a two-day convocation there, then on to Oxford, Ohio, to Miami University and other colleges. At the completion of her midwest tour, she will return to New York for a week then fly to the west coast where she will embark for Japan and a tour of the Orient. She will lecture and do research work in the various countries on the problem of women's rights, what they have achieved and how they have accomplished it.

"Women have to fight for their rights," Mrs. Shafik said. "There's no other way to achieve their goal." And she speaks with the authority of experience.

10 Pupils Unhurt In Car And Bus Collision

Ten pupils of the Alexander grade school and the driver of the bus on which they were riding escaped injury early Wednesday morning when an automobile crashed with the rear of the bus on State Route 123, north of Alexander, while the highway was fog-shrouded. The driver of the car sustained injuries to his mouth.

The bus belonging to the Alexander-Franklin-Nortonville district, driven by Ted Thompson, stopped in front of the Roy Ward home to pick up another pupil. According to a report compiled by the sheriff's office, the bus was struck from the rear just after it started to move again.

Kenneth Templin, 1524 South Main street, was driver of the 1954 car involved in the accident. Templin, who is employed by the Mid-west Photo Laboratory, suffered an injury that knocked out several teeth. He was brought to Jacksonville for medical treatment.

The bus and car were both going north, the accident occurring about 7:30 a. m.

The damaged automobile was towed to the Morgan County Motors garage.

There was some damage to the school bus. Another bus was called to the place of the accident to pick up the children and continue the school, which led back to the school.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Timmons sent to the accident scene and rendered assistance.

Timmons said the crash occurred at an hour when the entire community was blanketed by heavy fog. Several minor traffic crankups happened in this area, but no other instances of injury were reported.

Education And Ideals

By JOSEPH W. BAUS
Pastor of
First Presbyterian Church

There is no education without ideals; there may be training, but there can be no true education. You can train animals, I am told that some time ago a psychologist proved that even an earth worm could learn.

He constructed a maze through which the earth worm crawled and at a certain turn, going one way brought the worm in contact with an electric wire which gave it a mild shock, but turning the other direction led it to soft, moist earth. After about 2000 trials the earth worm learned to turn the right direction each time. This was training, but one could not call it education.

In a sense, one might say that the giant calculating machines which are being built now can be trained to perform certain operations. These are always mechanical operations, and the choices which the machines make are made without any consideration of moral implications by the machine itself. The difference between training and education comes in the area of morals. Only man makes right choices in the light of ideals which he holds. The task of education is to inculcate ideals. The kind of school system we have in the United States is adapted to that purpose.

You can train an earth worm to turn the right direction in a maze, but you can't teach him anything about the moral quality of that choice. You can construct a machine which can perform intricate operations and may even train that machine to make choices. But you cannot build it to make those choices in the light of ideals which it holds. The difference between training and education is right here in this respect. Human life is characterized by ideals in the light of which right choices are made. You can train animals to perform certain functions, and some of what we call education for human beings is more than that. But at best, education is concerned with the development of mature, responsible human beings, who have goals and standards of conduct, and who live by these ideals.

During this education week we may be thankful that we have the kind of educational system in our nation and community which is concerned with and adapted to this real function of education, rather than accepting as its task simply that of training workers to do various jobs. Without minimizing the importance of a wide variety of skills necessary for any human being to get along in this world, we must still not lose sight of the fact that the real goal of education is to nurture those ideals by which the human being can live and thus enable him to use his knowledge and skills most effectively for his personal satisfaction and the benefit of society.

Our educational system is well suited in several respects to perform this high function of education. In the first place, it is open to all on an equal basis. There is no authority which determines that some shall be workers and others thinkers. The wealth of knowledge which we have is available to all who wish to take advantage of it. In the second place, we have emphasized the right of freedom of inquiry. True ideals emerge out of study, thought, and experience. Men of integrity and good will have differed regarding basic convictions. By having available varying ideas about politics, economics, religion, and morals, growing students may develop their own convictions which are much more likely to stand the test of life than a tailor-made system of ethics transferred from teacher to pupil with no opportunity for critical thinking on the part of the pupil. In the third place, there is that kind of tolerance which has room for deep convictions. Teachers, administrators, text book writers, editors, do have convictions about our government, about religion, about education, and about morals, but none of these can be imposed on any group by external authority to the exclusion of all other views. Thus any idea or ideal must depend upon its inherent truth and quality to prevail, rather than upon some unrelated authority. Also, we have people of varying convictions modifying and enriching each others' ideas.

Finally, our educational system is particularly suited to perform the highest functions of education because of the quality of those who teach. Perhaps there are some poor teachers, but there are not very many. We may be thankful for that. Ideals for living are not learned primarily from text books but from people. How grateful we are then that our teachers are the kind of devoted, dedicated, high minded people that they are. Once I heard the superintendent of schools here in Jacksonville say that he and the other teachers in the school system are more interested in producing good boys and girls than they were in producing good students. This is real education at its best.

The problem was referred to Buildings and Grounds Supervisor D. E. Brady, who may become chief dogcatcher.

Honor 4 Members Married Fifty Years Or More

ARCADIA—The Open meeting of the Arcadia Woman's Club was held Thursday evening, Nov. 11. A baked chicken supper along with the traditional scalloped oysters was served to eighty people. This included 26 members, their families and guests. The county president of the Federated Woman's Club, Mrs. Louis Werries and husband were special guests of the supper.

Roscoe Goodpasture returned thanks before the meal. The domestic committee, Mrs. Lark Buck, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Bertha Ater, Mrs. Roscoe Goodpasture and Mrs. Harold Rolf served the supper. The tables were decorated with streamers of the club colors, vases and fall flowers.

After the supper Mrs. Loren Burrus, the club president, opened the meeting for the program which followed, with the group repeating the Lord's Prayer, and singing "America." Miss Wilma Crum was at the piano. Mrs. Fred Standley led the pledge to the flag. Mrs. Louis Werries was introduced by Mrs. Loren Burrus. She gave a short address about Federated Clubs. The president then introduced the four new members that have recently joined the club.

The program committee, Mrs. Fred Standley, Mrs. Harold McGinnis and Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie, presented the entertainment. The group sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" with Miss Wilma Crum singing a "Descant" accompaniment and playing at the piano. Carol McGinnis played "Answer Me My Love," "Yaya Con Dia" and "Wild Horses." A saxophone solo, Mrs. Roy Ward gave a tray of lecture of her recent trip to Europe while Roy Ward operated the movies. The pictures of Holland and of the Castle Guards in England were especially enjoyed from the pictures which include eight countries visited.

Miss Mary Jo Thompson sang "If You Were the Only Girl" and "Memories." She then surprised four of the club members by announcing that the club was honoring them in the remaining part of the program. It had been realized that these four couples had been married for fifty years or more. In recognition, corsages were then pinned on these members, and bouquets for their husbands, by the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Henderson, married 57 years, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parlier, married 53 years, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark, whose 51st anniversary was on this day, and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Thompson, married 50 years.

A film taken recently at the Arcadia hall when Mr. and Mrs. Thompson celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, was then shown by Miss Mary Jo Thompson. Many of the persons present were a highlight of the entertainment. Carol McGinnis played selections of the "Marines Hymns" on the accordion, to close the program. Coffee was offered by the domestic committee during a short visiting period.

Three Junior high pupils, Howard Timmons, Dick Gully and Jim Morrison, now 8th grade pupils who when as seventh graders in the South Jacksonville school last year took in the southern states with their teacher Jane Wright Muratroy, spoke before the Nov. 11 meeting of the Concord P.T.A. held at the school.

The boys, accompanied by Mrs. Muratroy, showed slides taken on the trip and gave interesting commentary for the group. The group was invited to give an account of their educational travel experiences for the school organization.

The boys will appear this Friday evening, Nov. 19, at the regular meeting of the Ceres Community club.

What is said to be the "easiest and cleanest" home rug cleaner known as Blue Lustre is now available. It is the development of years of research. Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue in the nap after cleaning. The pile is left open and fluffy and the colors are restored to original brilliance as if by magic. All this plus the fact that it's easy to apply and safe for the finest fabrics makes Blue Lustre the answer to the wall to wall carpet cleaning problem. Blue Lustre is a concentrate and inexpensive to use. Half gallons priced at $2.59 will clean three 9x12 rugs. Available at Bonke Hardware Co.

SARNO, Italy (AP) — Fireworks stored in a house here for Christmas blew up Tuesday, killing at least nine persons. Several others were listed as missing. The blast destroyed three homes.

John Ruskin Said...

"There is hardly anything in the world that some man cannot make a little worse and sell a little cheaper, and the people who consider price are this man's lawful prey." It is my wish that photography remain the art it was intended to be, not simply a rapid means of making money.

Madness In The Spring

XXI
DAGGETT said impatiently, "Oh, look here, Greg, you know perfectly well that our friend does not intend to return to that shack." He turned his head. "Where are you going, by the way?"

"I have no idea," the stranger admitted. "I am footloose and fancy free." He shifted his position in order to ease the injured wrist, which he displayed as prominently as possible.

"Does it give you much pain?" Daggett inquired with an exaggerated solicitude that made Greg suspect that the old man shared his doubts about the seriousness of the injury. But why was Daggett playing the fellow's game for him?

"I hardly noticed it." The stranger stifled a groan. "In a few days I'll probably be able to use it again." Meantime, he implied, he was a helpless cripple.

For a moment the old man ruminated. Then he leaped straight at the heart of the matter. "I hope," he said, "it isn't a major crime." Minor ones, he implied, he could take in his stride.

This put him squarely up to the stranger, who leaned over Rupert and opened the car door. "Well, thanks very much for the lift, anyhow."

"Just a minute," Daggett said hastily. "I am not a policeman." "I am not a criminal," the stranger said hotly. "Just a victim of circumstances."

Daggett demanded abruptly, "Who are you?"

The stranger, who was toying with the ash tray, answered cheerfully. "I will answer to B or to any loud cry but it might be simpler to call me Philip Kirby."

Only four syllables, but they shook the convertible to its wheels.

For a moment even Daggett was stripped of his self-possession. No wonder the voice had seemed familiar. Up to the past week they had heard it nightly on the radio, as M.C. of a program that introduced amateur talent, as a way of providing entertainment without straining the budget. Following the growing trend of discourtesy to radio guests—and Kirby was always an assiduous word-follower—he had excelled himself on what proved to be his last broadcast by his heartless mockery of a young man who lacked talent.

The young man had proved an embarrassed by going home and putting a bullet through his head. Kirby's contract, in response to public protest—the station proving as sensitive to public disapproval as Kirby was to trends—had been broken with a crash that resounded across the nation. And Kirby had vanished from the haunts of men.

"Well, now," the old man said at length and Greg detected with satisfaction the uncertainty in his voice. "Well, now, this is a bad situation."

"Awkward," agreed the familiar voice. "Unpleasant, of course, especially in my profession where popularity is a man's life blood. And yet you know, I can't see that I was responsible."

For a long moment Daggett studied Kirby. Then he made up his mind. "Then open door creates a draft. Please close it."

"Thank you," Kirby closed the door and leaned back quickly as though afraid Daggett would change his mind.

Hannah gave Greg a bewildered look and he shrugged his shoulders. This time, he thought, the old man had really gone too far.

Kirby settled himself more comfortably and pulled out a gold cigarette case, which he offered to Daggett and Rupert.

With his left hand, which had made a remarkable recovery, he produced a gold lighter. "I take it," Daggett remarked, "that you have gone into hiding."

KIRBY'S pleasant voice did not change but it was obvious that he was annoyed. "Temporary amnesia," he corrected. "By the time I recover I'll have thought out a really dramatic way to reappear. And by that time poor Perkins will have been forgotten."

Again there was the curious expression on Daggett's face. "But meantime," Kirby went on cheerfully, "I drift as lightly as a cloud. No ties, no duties, no obligations, no taxes, no wife. It's the millennium."

"A bit on the negative side," Daggett pointed out.

"What the world needs is more negative reactions," Kirby said. "Think of the demands that are made on us every day. Ask the man for This Brand of whisky. Try That Brand of cigarette. Sell your diamonds. Call this number tonight—not tomorrow, mind you, but tonight; don't waste a minute. Like that miserable character in Alice whose time was worth 1000 pounds a minute. The thing is absurd. What we need is more really aggressive nonbuyers and adamant non-doers."

After Greg's reticence, Hannah's restless quietness and Rupert's hesitant if impeccable English, the car seemed filled with chatter. All cluttered up with words. I am glad the windows are down, Greg thought, so I can air out a few phrases.

Rupert sat trying to look at though he were not there. Philip Kirby, apparently, was a well-known criminal who had gone into hiding. Crime meant law. Law meant someone saying, "Move on. Move on."

In the rear-view mirror Greg saw his face and knew what was going on behind his anxious eyes. "It's okay, Rupert," he said. "They don't want this guy for anything but murder."

Flying Colors Styling in 1955 Oldsmobile "98"

Streamlined symmetry of the 1955 Oldsmobile is embodied in this Series "98" four-door sedan with its two-tone flying colors styling. A stainless steel moulding that dips gracefully from the rear door towards the taillights, then sweeps forward past the front wheel opening, provides the color separation. This two-tone color styling is optional at extra cost. Other distinctive new styling notes are the hooded headlights, redesigned bumpers front and rear, a new Oldsmobile emblem and name identification in the grille. The series is identified in chrome script on the front fender. The 1955 Oldsmobile "98" is powered by a 202-h.p. "Rocket" engine with 8.5 to 1 compression ratio.
